Good-morning ! I just called your office and your cell-phone. Rather than continuing to just email each other I wanted to have a brief conversation with our Site RPM Katrina Coltrain on the line with me.

Ms. Coltrain has informed me that she currently is not planning to be present when you and others are at the Site.

Yes—there are portions of the Site that have been fenced off by EPA but you can still presumably gain access by obtaining the consent of the respective property owner.

We here at EPA have no objections with you going forward with what I am assuming is simply a planned visit to the Site.

What if any other activities are you planning when you conduct your Site visit ?

I am available to have a Conference Call with you

Thanks – we will get you some proposed dates. However, as I mentioned in my earlier e-mail, my understanding is that portions of the site are currently fenced by EPA. If Katrina does not attend, I'm unclear as to how we would be able to access those areas and whether additional measures may need to be taken that require EPA's presence. Can you please clarify?

As you may recall, Ross Lewin and I represent one of the defendants in lawsuits regarding the Wilcox Oil Superfund site in Bristow, Oklahoma. Along with counsel for the other defendants, we are attempting to arrange for a site inspection of some of the private properties that are the subject of the suits and are within the boundaries of the Superfund site, including the former church property. Counsel for plaintiffs is generally agreeable to these inspections, will provide the necessary legal access, and will very likely accompany us. However, we wanted to reach out to you so as to coordinate any necessary EPA involvement in the field (for example, I understand EPA has erected a fence on some portion of the site). Can you please advise as to how to proceed?

Let me know if you would like to discuss.

Good afternoon Marvin –

I am a colleague of Ross Lewin's, who I understand you've spoken with regarding the well located on the Church property within the Wilcox Oil Superfund Site in Bristow, Oklahoma. I understand from Ross that EPA has gathered certain sampling data from that well, but it is too large to transmit via e-mail. To facilitate transmission, we have arranged for a secure FTP site which you can use to transmit that information. Please access the site via the link below. It does require registration of your email address, so please let me know if that's a problem.

<https://securefiles.dbr.com/bds/Login.do?id=A0534759708&p1=afj025psbgefigkibjlcgcgbk20>

We have also reviewed the sampling reports that you provided. It appears that those reports relate to more than one sample – would it be possible for EPA to provide a key that identifies what the sample IDs in those reports signify?

Please don't hesitate to give me a call with any questions.

Many thanks,
Leigh Bausinger
